Located in the German Village area of downtown Columbus, Schwartz Castle dates back to the 1800s and is known to have a peculiar past. While building a castle fit for his queen, apothecary owner Frederick Schwartz was left by his beloved fiancé and was said to be driven mad with grief. He began building a labyrinth beneath the castle, adding five basement levels and underground passageways. Rumor has it that while his lover may have left him, he never left the would-be marital home. It's been told that his spirit can still be seen roaming the halls of the castle, which has landed it a spot on the Haunted Ohio tour.

All ghosts aside, Schwartz built what turned into one luxurious bachelor pad. As the tallest house in German Village and the only official castle in the area, the majesty can be seen long before arriving at the property. Upon entering the now rentable vacation
