About SHINE ONE

Arnold was born on November 26, 1961, in Quezon City, Philippines. As a child, he faced many challenges seemingly unimaginable to overcome. At a very early age, Arnold was tested by life; his life was filled with suffering as are so many others with similar origins. He spent several years being homeless, during an active civil war in the 1960s, sleeping in public parks, abandoned buses, or on a bench inside a cemetery mausoleum for his hideaway from the dangerous environment of constant bombing and gunfire. He earned meager money by collecting glass bottles, newspapers, and scrap metal and selling them to recyclers. Even with his hard labor, he still didn't have much to eat, sometimes a few hard-boiled eggs and rationing a small package of biscuits as food for several days. His challenges were a hard choice between life at home with an abusive family vs. street life during an active civil war. Which choice was worse?

Career

He took his dreams to the United States and made them a reality. In the 1990s, firmly holding on to his faith and dreams of a brighter future, he moved to Northern California and worked with a major computer company as VP of Sales and Marketing. He then went on to form his own computer company and because of his strong work ethic, he became a millionaire in less than 6 months! Arnold never chose to be the victim and always strived to be the warrior as he soared above his early start. Arnold believes his enormous success was driven by his past life experiences, which taught him to persevere past any obstacles. His ability to continue chasing his passion, life purpose, and entrepreneurial endeavors has branded Arnold Garcia a Great American Success Story!
