Insight*

Certified Tracking Solutions is majority owned by private equity firm Hammond Kennedy Whitney and is based in Edmonton, Canada with US headquarters in Scottsdale, Arizona. GPS Insight is based in Scottsdale, Arizona, and is majority owned by private equity firm, Accel-KKR, which is focused on investing in software and technology-enabled services firms.

"GPS Insight is pleased to announce this strategic partnership with Certified Tracking Solutions, as it allows us to provide even more robust solutions for our customers while extending our competitive advantage across the fleet management and field service industries," said Gary Fitzgerald, CEO of GPS Insight. "We are committed to providing tools for businesses to operate more efficiently, and by combining our teams and platforms, we create an unparalleled synergy to guarantee high-quality, reliable service while enabling our clients to deliver a superior end-to-end service experience for their own customers.”

“Joining forces with GPS Insight will help Certified Tracking Solutions achieve its goal of offering a more comprehensive suite of fleet management and field service solutions to our partners,” said Ben Jensen, Jr., Founder and CEO of Certified Tracking Solutions. “Our existing and future customers can expect to see benefits immediately as we expand to a new level of innovation for companies and assets of all kinds.”

This acquisition expands the reach of Titan GPS into the US market and provides customers with access to a full suite of fleet and field service management capabilities via an integrated platform. The combined expertise and resources of both companies will enable a highly scalable offering, more innovative technology and more resources to help customers maximize the value from their software investment.
