Global Gelatin Market Dynamics

Drivers

Rising Demand of Choosing Healthy Lifestyle

The in-home consumption of convenience meals increased to 26% during the pandemic.

Understanding the importance of health as a lifestyle choice has encouraged consumers in the F&B sector. However, in the above forecast period, the personal care category is the market's fastest-growing segment, with a CAGR of 5.51%, by value due to higher average protein content of 5% in gelatin than other dairy proteins like whey & milk proteins.

Preference of Collagen Consumption

The majority of the consumers prefer collagen consumption through their diet instead of taking it through injections, which is likely to yield higher product penetration in the food and beverage industry. For instance, various manufacturers namely JBS and JIANGXI COSEN BIOLOGY CO., LTD. produce bovine grade collagen for food and beverage applications. Growing demand for the mentioned products in confectionery and desserts is expected to boost the market growth.
