

Football Enthusiasts Rise to the Top with Football Helper

Football Helper now offers free 1-on-1 consultations for sports lovers just beginning or bringing their football fandom to the next level

CHERRY HILL, NEW JERSEY, UNITED STATES, October 13, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Football Helper, a football education and advice business, has launched a free 1-on-1 introductory call offer for individuals interested in exploring the world of American football on a deeper level. Anyone from novice sports lovers breaking into the fantasy football world, to diehard fans looking to level up their game predictions, can schedule a no-cost and no-obligation strategy session with Football Helper to discuss how they can reach their goals.

Fantasy sports have become increasingly popular over the years, putting individuals in the manager's seat, giving them a fun break from daily life, and a way to turn up the excitement on game day. Football Helper helps sports fans gain a competitive edge with insider tips, systematic analysis, and tricks to win their league.

We created Football Helper to put our knowledge of the sport to good use, helping others hone their skills and pursue greatness in the world of sports gaming.”

Dean Seidman, founder of Football Helper

Football Helper provides affordable, weekly online coaching sessions for football enthusiasts who want to learn 1-on-1 from football experts and sharpen their knowledge of football trends, fantasy football, esports, and more. Membership options range from 30-minute, one-hour, and full-season plans.

The team of experts at Football Helper is equipped to answer fantasy football questions, aid in draft picks and lineups, and assist fans using unique systematic analysis so they can make informed decisions while predicting game statistics and outcomes.

Football Helper also educates gamers on Madden NFL 23, with tips on how to become unstoppable esports players. Football Helper founder Dean Seidman is renowned in the Madden football community for ranking top 50 in the world for the last four years in a row.

A lifelong Philadelphia Eagles fan, NFL enthusiast, and graduate of the #1 ranked Rowan University Sports Communication and Media program, Dean founded Football Helper to share his extensive knowledge of football with fans in a transparent, fun, and positive way that will increase their retention and knowledge of the sport.

“Fantasy football and esports are great vehicles to discover a sense of community and build confidence in a way that allows people to escape the stress of their daily lives,” said Dean Seidman, founder of Football Helper. “We created Football Helper to put our knowledge of the sport to good use, helping others hone their skills and pursue greatness in the world of sports gaming.”

Dean’s passion for fantasy football is shared by millions of players across the country and world, including Football Helper specialist, Gage Hutzley, who is also a Rowan University’s Sports Communication and Media graduate. Before his role at Football Helper, Gage was heavily involved in the sports scene with stretches at NFL Films and Overtime sports media.

“We eat, sleep, and breathe football, so we are excited to share our expertise and engage with football lovers like ourselves and bring them along the journey with us as we help them excel in all things football,” said Gage Hutzley, brand activation specialist at Football Helper.
