As per The Business Research
Company's "Defense Support and Auxiliary Equipment Global Market

Report 2022", the defense support and auxiliary equipment market is expected to grow from $ 130.45 billion in 2021 to $ 137.86 billion in 2022 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.7%. The growth in the defense support and auxiliary equipment market is mainly due to the companies rearranging their operations and recovering from the COVID-19 impact, which had earlier led to restrictive containment measures involving social distancing, remote working, and the closure of commercial activities that resulted in operational challenges. The defense support and auxiliary equipment market is expected to reach $ 164.04 billion in 2026 at a CAGR of 4.4%. Rapid advances in wireless technology and miniaturization (which refers to designing smaller components for equipment) are expected to drive innovation in the defense market, thus driving the market during the forecast period.

Key Trends In The Defense Support and Auxiliary Equipment Market

The use of passive radars is gaining traction in the market due to its advantages across a wide range of defense and civil applications and cost-effectiveness. Passive radars use the existing electromagnetic signals from the atmosphere to support imaging and tracking capabilities, whereas the regular/active radar sends out electromagnetic signals to the target and receives reflected signals from the target. Passive radars use ambient radio signals for tracking and surveillance and are less expensive to operate.
