Due to the increase in small and medium-sized businesses, North America currently controls the majority of the business software market. The growth of this market in the area will also be aided by the improvement of technology and rising R&D spending throughout the course of the projected period.

Owing to the increase in smartphone use and internet penetration, Asia-Pacific is expected to have considerable growth in the business spend software market. BSM software was adopted by end users to streamline business operations. Additionally, the ongoing trend of digitalization encourages businesses to create technologically cutting-edge solutions, which is further expected to fuel the expansion of the business spend software market in the region over the next few years.

Business Spend Management (BSM) Software Industry Definition and Major Segments

Business spend management (BSM) is a set of software-assisted business operations.
