Record setting results, groundbreaking reports, data, trends, manufactured housing industry achievements are reviewed as part of 13th anniversary celebration.

KISSIMMEE, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, October 15, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- "Curious minds want to know" says the first line in the new report on ManufacturedHomeProNews.com (MHPProNews.com). The new issue celebrates the 13th anniversary of the "MHVille" focused media along with teasers on what's coming for the 14th year of the ground breaking industry trade publication.

What is now known as MHPProNews.com launched after a string of longtime manufactured housing industry trade publications closed in the first decade of the 21st century.

Among those was Modern Homes previously published by the Manufactured Housing Institute (MHI). MHPProNews was launched digitally to fill the void that the loss of other industry trade publications created.

Several viral and top reports on issues of importance to affordable housing advocates, manufactured home owners or professionals, investors, public officials and others are examined

"...keeping them [home buyers of manufactured homes] happy after the sale. This means insuring the homeowner builds equity and wealth in their home. And finally, this means providing for stable, viable resale market for when it is time to sell the home. Once the industry delivers this value, the rest will fall into place naturally."

- Chris Stinebert, while still Manufactured Housing Institute (MHI) president.

"It puzzles me why the auto, boating and RV industries can sell their products, which in many cases are much more costly than ours, with far fewer financing hurdles and regulations than the manufactured housing industry. In my opinion, we have done a poor job of advancing our cause and lobbying for our industry."
