/EINPresswire.com/ -- About the Active, Smart And Intelligent Packaging Market Report \(2022-2032\) and Statistics

Active, Smart And Intelligent Packaging Market

In the past, food packaging was mostly about extending shelf life and protecting the product. However, consumer behavior and expectations have changed dramatically in recent years, demanding more from brands in terms of sustainability, transparency and convenience. Active, smart and intelligent packaging is one way manufacturers are meeting these new demands.

Active, smart and intelligent packaging is one way manufacturers are meeting these new demands.

Active packaging is any type of packaging that uses an external energy source to extend the shelf life of a product. Smart packaging uses information technology to track the product throughout its journey from production to consumption. Intelligent packaging goes a step further by using sensors to monitor environmental conditions and automatically adjust them to optimize product quality.
