

Richard Lynch Wins Academy Of Western Artists Award For Pure Country Album Of The Year

His acclaimed album "My Guitar Drips Country" earns Lynch his third AWA Award.

FORT WORTH, TX, USA, October 18, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hot on the heels of his latest single release, a duet with Katelyn Adams, traditional country artist Richard Lynch has won Pure Country Album of the Year at the 26th Academy of Western Artists Awards. The award-winning album, "My Guitar Drips Country" was one of five finalists nominated for the award. The album, produced by Lynch, includes the duet with Adams, "My Heart and Yours," as well as radio and iTunes hits

"Supernaw," "He'll Make Everything Alright," "Rodeo Town" and several other chart-toppers. Lynch wrote or co-wrote all the tracks on the album. This is Lynch's 3rd Academy of Western Artists Award.

"I can't think of a more deserving artist and human being on the planet," said Michael Stover of MTS Management Group. "Richard is one of the hardest working, passionate, and truly caring individuals in the business. He is a gentleman and a throwback to the greats of country music, who paved the path before him. Congrats Richard!"
