

i3 Health Receives NCPD Premier Award From the American Nurses Credentialing Center NCPD Accreditation Program

i3 Health is honored to be recognized as a 2022 recipient of the Nursing Continuing Professional Development (NCPD) Premier Award.

ROCHELLE PARK, NEW JERSEY, USA, October 19, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- i3 Health is honored to be recognized as a 2022 recipient of the Nursing Continuing Professional Development (NCPD) Premier Award presented by the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC) NCPD Accreditation Program.

Awarded annually, the NCPD Premier Award is presented to accredited providers that excel in developing high-quality NCPD-accredited educational activities. Recipients of this prestigious award are exemplary organizations that serve as role models in the field of nursing education.

This recognition will aid us in furthering our mission to provide evidence-based, fair-balanced activities that enhance the proficiency of nurses and the entire multidisciplinary team."

Melissa Cutrona, General Manager of i3 Health

i3 Health was awarded this recognition for exemplifying a culture of empowerment that engages nurses in shared decision making and interprofessional collaboration, and for sustaining a culture of evidence-based education in alignment with public health initiatives and its own strategic goals.

"i3 Health is honored and grateful to be recognized as a 2022 recipient of the ANCC NCPD Premier Award," commented Melissa Cutrona, General Manager of i3 Health. "This recognition will aid us in furthering our mission to provide evidence-based, fair-balanced activities that enhance the proficiency of nurses and the entire multidisciplinary team."
