Market Insights

A mandate in Halal Certification by Islamic countries

The regional laws in Islamic countries mandate halal certification for manufacturers to import and market halal cosmetic products. This has resulted in prominent international cosmetic manufacturers getting their products halal certified to enable them to export their products to Islamic countries. On the consumer side, halal certification is expected to help consumers establish the authenticity of the product and its ingredients. Thus, the halal certification mandate by Islamic countries is expected to provide the necessary regulatory support and supplement market growth.
