Groves is an experienced civil litigator with extensive experience in education law, nonprofit law, professional liability defense, and business litigation. He represents public charter schools, traditional public school districts and independent schools in Rhode Island and Massachusetts in a range of matters and serves as general counsel to several national nonprofit organizations. Groves has successfully represented insurance carriers, corporate clients and schools in trials in the Rhode Island and Connecticut Superior Courts and on appeals before the Rhode Island Supreme Court. He received a J.D., cum laude, from Roger Williams University School of Law, an M.A., magna cum laude, from Middlebury College, Bread

Loaf School of English and a B.A., cum laude with distinction in major, from Colby College.

Lynch is an experienced civil litigator, focusing primarily in the areas of professional liability and personal injury defense, and workers' compensation litigation. Frequently appearing in state and federal courts, he utilizes skillful legal analysis and careful strategy in order successfully counsel and advocate on behalf of his clients. Lynch was included in the 2023 Best Lawyers: Ones to Watch in the areas of Personal Injury Litigation – Defendants and Workers' Compensation Law – Employers. He has also been named to the Rhode Island Super Lawyers Rising Stars list for medical malpractice (2016-2018, 2020-2022). Lynch received a J.D. from Roger Williams University School of Law, cum laude, and a B.A. from Providence College.
