ProBioraPet® has partnered with Greater Good Charities, a global nonprofit organization helping people, pets, and the planet, to donate more than 3,000 units of ProBioraPet oral-care probiotics to animal shelters in several states. The value of this in-kind donation is more than $62,000.

Many people don't know that maximizing oral health in pets, as well as people, is key to overall health. A healthy body starts with a healthy mouth.”

of ProBiora Health*

“We are long-time supporters of shelters, and when we had the opportunity to donate product through Greater Good Charities, we were delighted to do so,” says Chris Koski, president and CEO of ProBiora Health, makers of ProBioraPet. “We want to do what we can for these pets. Many people don't know that maximizing oral health in pets, as well as people, is key to overall health,” she continues. “A healthy body starts with a healthy mouth.”

Data shows that 80 percent of dogs and 70 percent of cats show signs of oral disease by age three*. ProBioraPet oral-care probiotic contains a proprietary blend of beneficial bacteria which adhere to tooth surfaces and the gumline and ‘knocks out’ harmful bacteria. Harmful bacteria are the cause of bad breath, plaque, tartar and oral disease. Just like in humans, oral disease can lead to chronic illnesses.

“The generous donation from ProBioraPet will support the oral health of dogs and cats in shelters in Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, New York, and other locations,” says Liz Baker, CEO for Greater Good Charities. “We are incredibly grateful to Chris and the team at ProBiora Health for allowing us to help more than 3,000 shelter pets in need.”

In addition to pets, ProBiora Health offers oral-care probiotics for adults and children. Supported by more than 30 years of scientific research, each product is formulated specifically to support tooth and gum health. ProBiora Health oral-care probiotics are recommended by leading veterinarians and dental professionals. For more information visit www.ProBioraHealth.com.
