UNITED STATES, October 22, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- October 21st saw a very inspiring program hosted by Iowa based start-up Neuworldz, in its second season, with military veterans from USA and India come together on one webinar sharing experience, guidance, expertise on career transition to help other veterans deal with the military to corporate transition seamlessly. The program was attended by eminent speakers and professionals who served in military in their respective countries, come together on one platform sharing practical lessons and expertise to help veterans deal with career transitions seamlessly.

One of the major challenges faced by veterans across nations is the journey from military to corporate which is a big shift both in mindset, culture and practices. Most of the time the support provided by federal institutions is always centered on benefits and advantages covering the tangible aspects of the experience. As Shrabonee Paul, the Founder CEO of Neuworldz puts it, "The biggest struggles are the intangible aspects that goes in the behavior, mindset and preparation to adapt to a new culture and expectations".

Neuworldz has been making a positive mark slowly but steadily with the value they bring to the society with their work. The start up has been hosting learning webinars focused at supporting businesses and industries to network with stalwarts, create a learning platform and enable growth through collaborations. Neuworldz has also been hosting a unique interview program featuring industry stalwarts and well known professionals who inspire the world with their work and humanitarian contributions to society, named "Inspirations and Aspirations", hosted by the
