"If I could use one term to describe "Let's Move," it would be "musical gumbo," said Valentine. "The song blends soul, gospel, and jazz flavorings to create a rich listening experience that delights the senses and creates a memorable, soulful melody and danceable grooves."

Valentine's roots in the music industry run deep, beginning as a child when he performed as part of the Valentine Family Gospel Singers and later as a bassist for gospel artist William Becton. Over the years, he has played with jazz, R&B, and rock legends, and today can be heard on any number of instruments in his own recordings and those of other artists, including the bass, drums, and keyboard. He continues to diversify his influence in the industry, working as a producer and owning the record label Matcha Entertainment, LLC, with his wife and fellow artist, B. Valentine.

Eric Valentine's "Let's Move" will be available on October 28 on all major streaming platforms. To learn more about Eric Valentine, visit www.ericvalentinemusic.com.
