an assortment of kitchen tools, appliances, crockery, and cutlery, food prep and conference areas as well as free onsite parking, restroom facilities and elevator access.

Chefs Matt Dailey, Sandy Sauter, Josh Anderson and the team behind California Wine Country's top hospitality consulting firm Maryam + Company, Maryam Ahmed and Jenae Patrick, founded PLAYTE Kitchen to teach the culinary curious how to explore and thrive in the kitchen.

Since 2020, PLAYTE has offered popular in-person and virtual cooking classes such as "Foodie FUNdamentals,"

"Weekend Brunch," "Mother of Sauces," and "Tasty Tapas" for home chefs ranging in topic, skill-level and duration not to mention culinary content services such as recipe development and testing, professional food styling, photography and videography.

"After two years of development and running programs from our own kitchens, we are thrilled that our brand-new studio is now open," said PLAYTE Kitchen founders Dailey, Sauter, Anderson, Ahmed and Patrick in a joint statement. "Our team is proud to offer a physical space in the heart of Napa dedicated to foodies hungry to sharpen their cooking skills and culinary professionals looking to take their brand to the next level."

ABOUT PLAYTE KITCHEN

Formed in 2020, PLAYTE Kitchen teaches the culinary curious how to cook and play in the kitchen. Chefs Sandy Sauter and Josh Anderson, culinary educator Matt Dailey, Maryam Ahmed, owner of Maryam + Company, and Jenae Patrick, joined forces to offer in-person and virtual foodie fun for home chefs ranging in topic, skill-level and duration. Together, the principles of PLAYTE Kitchen have a combined eighty years of professional experience in the food and beverage industry, including premier brands such as The Culinary Institute of America and Thomas Keller Restaurant Group. After years of crossing paths in Napa Valley, these five partners came together to offer engaging education based on their love of food and passion for teaching others.
