- Boston—August 21-22, 2023

A distinguished panel of judges chose the noteworthy women award recipients, who are making strides in promoting diversity, equity, and inclusion in a field which has been dominated by men, traditionally. These Top 50 Women of Impact will continue inspiring and forging the way for the next generations of women in tech to increase in numbers and to continue helping women to thrive in the field of technology.

Today's progressive companies, who are prioritizing diversity, equity, and inclusion are increasing the likelihood that, at some point down the road, women's participation in the tech industry, as well as in many others, will be considered commonplace and no longer hailed as being revolutionary.

Women Impact Tech's inaugural award, for going above and beyond, making strides to promote DEI and gender equity in the tech space, and leading the charge for the next generation of women to thrive, is quite an honor. Each of these celebrated women not only benefit the field of technology, with their insights, knowledge, and contributions, they make it easier for the next person to see that it's possible to succeed, even if you don't fit the field's traditional worker mold.

I am honored to receive this award and be in such distinguished and accomplished company. Women's contributions in technology, and in many other fields, benefits us all, today and for years to come.”

Dawn Wellott, CEO of SmartMomGig.com

“It's extremely important to our mission to highlight and support the individual women who are breaking barriers, paving paths, and uplifting the other women around them. We're proud and grateful for these women and it is our honor to recognize them.” says Women Impact Tech President Paula Bratcher Ratliff, who has devoted her career to aiding corporations in crafting strong DEI statements backed in action and results and is now turning her focus to the tech space.
