Coherent Market Insights:

While Microsegmentation is a promising method to reduce the risk of cyberattacks, the implementation of this method requires an understanding of the network security environment. Most legacy architectures have evolved piecemeal over time, making comprehensive documentation difficult to find. As such, microsegmentation efforts require a thorough mapping of existing architectures. Even then, microsegmentation efforts often are limited to guesswork and rely on experience and intuition. While traditional perimeter-based security measures are effective at preventing intrusions from outside the enterprise, microsegmented networks are especially useful for organizations that use cloud services.

- Opportunities in the market
- The mechanics of growth
- Quality control
- Reports are often updated.

Key segments in the market:

The research splits the global Microsegmentation Market into sectors such as product type and application. Each segment is based primarily on its market share and growth rate.

- Global Microsegmentation Market, By Component:
 - Software
 - Services
- Global Microsegmentation Market, Services:
 - Managed Services
 - Professional Services
- Global Microsegmentation Market, Security:
 - Network Security
 - Database Security
 - Application Security
- Global Microsegmentation Market, Deployment Type:
 - On-premises
 - Cloud
- Global Microsegmentation Market, Organization Size:
 - SMEs
 - Large Enterprises
- Global Microsegmentation Market, Vertical:
 - Government & Defense
 - BFSI
 - IT & Telecom
