

Travel Tech Startup To Showcase New Platforms at World Travel Market 2022, London

Looking Forward To Seeing You At WTM, London

PEACHTREE CITY, GA, UNITED STATES, November 3, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The team from TravCoding, a leader in travel technology, is excited to announce their presence at the World Travel Market in London, England, November 7th thru 9th, 2022. World Travel Market London is the market leading international travel event created to unlock business opportunities for both inbound and outbound tourism professionals. Travel professionals flock to London to connect and hear about how leading companies and industry professionals are transforming the industry, and to gain insights into trending destinations and new product advancements.

"We are very proud of what we have accomplished this past year", said Fernando Fortini, President of TravCoding. "We have spent countless hours at the workstations bringing our product to life. We felt it was time to showcase our accomplishments at such an important event. We are highlighting our turn-key, plug and play booking platforms, widgets, a world of supply through our API hub and back office solutions."

"I'm looking forward to the London trip. Not only will we be getting our products to the front line, we will be able to get a good look at what our peers are doing, what direction the industry is moving in." said Chris Keller, VP of Strategic Partnerships. "With all of the recent good news about travel getting back to pre-pandemic numbers, it should make for a very positive experience for all"
