As an Abyde Ambassador, Wilgus will serve as a bridge between Abyde and independent practices addressing the need for compliance programs to be more automated and complete. Wilgus understands firsthand the struggle practices face to achieve and maintain compliance as they continue to rely on a single person to manage, assess, document, and address areas of risk. The coupling of Wilgus' experience and Abyde's revolutionary software provides a solution to practices across the nation that allows them to refocus their efforts back on their patient experience.

"We are so excited to have an expert from the dental industry be our first Abyde Ambassador," said Chris Wheaton, Senior Vice President of Sales and Strategic Partnerships. "With his appointment, our efforts to revolutionize compliance for independent practices will grow exponentially. Wilgus' background and understanding of the independent practice environment are essential for Abyde as we continue to grow our HIPAA and OSHA solutions."

"In a nutshell, my goal with Abyde is to help as many dentists as possible achieve and maintain compliance," said Michael Wilgus. "I believe Abyde provides not only the best in class solution to accomplish this but they are the first of their kind to simplify compliance for any practice."
