Further, for the in-depth analysis, the report encompasses the industry growth indicators, restraints, supply and demand risk, along with detailed discussion on current and future market trends that are associated with the growth of the market.

The global e-notary software market is estimated to grow at a notable CAGR over the forecast period, i.e., 2022 – 2030. The market is segmented on the basis of type into cloud based, on premise, and others, out of which, the cloud-based segment is projected to garner the largest market share over the forecast period owing to the growing adoption of cloud computing technology, backed by its advantages, such as, high mobility, large storage, back-up option, and many others. The increasing number of cloud-based software and services is also likely to fuel the segment growth.

The global e-notary software market is foreseen to witness growth on the back of digitalization of various government procedures, especially after the Covid-19 pandemic. In the recent past, most of the documentation and verification processes have shifted to online method, which has surged the need for e-notaries. Moreover, e-notaries save the time and operational cost spent in searching a local notary. Furthermore, majority of the global population own a smartphone, and internet connectivity, to facilitate the disposal of e-notary software. Such factors are projected to strengthen the market growth over the forecast period.
