

NextGen Engages TAP IDEA for Equity Raise

Capital-Raising Platform Offers Sophisticated Fundraising Approach for Technology Company

MIAMI, FLA., UNITED STATES, October 28, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- NextGen Battery Technologies, a battery materials company developing a solid-state, non-flammable, low-cost, cobalt-free high-energy density battery, has retained TAP Financial Partners as its financing partner. The agreement activates TAP's IDEA (Investor Direct Equity Access) platform for the Arlington, Virginia-based company and enables it to access the resources of an investment bank, capabilities of crowdfunding, and a vast network of registered, accredited investors.

NextGen expects to use the generated capital for additional research and product development. It is currently developing a safe, high-voltage, and high energy lithium battery that will be adaptable for present and future manufacturing protocols that include electric vehicles. The company recently obtained exclusive licenses on seven government patents with the renewal of an ongoing agreement with the U.S. Army Combat Capabilities Development Command (DEVCOM).

The connection to TAP IDEA provides NextGen the opportunity to secure larger capital raises at times when it's needed most. The dollars place the offering steps above traditional crowdfunding platforms, as does the proprietary platform and institutionally-backed investor network. The
