November 15th, 2022: Assuras is pleased to announce that it will be making monthly book recommendations to success-driven business leaders and professionals interested in improving their skills and advancing their careers. In a statement released today, the global consultancy firm reaffirmed its commitment to enabling organizations and their leaders to make the workplace better, adding that the new monthly book recommendation would take it a step close to achieving its mission.

In business, reading is an incredibly important skill that helps to broaden the mind of the reader and also improve his/her verbal communication skills. Both entrepreneurs and professionals must continually keep themselves up-to-date with the latest trends and leading strategies in their respective fields if they hope to perform favorably in today's highly competitive world.

Globally famous and successful individuals such as Microsoft founder Bill Gates, Facebook founder Mark Zuckerberg, Dallas Mavericks owner and investor Mark Cuban, and a host of other billionaires have all revealed that they read anywhere between 25 to 50 books a year- a habit to which they have attributed much of their success in life and business. In addition to stimulating creativity and strengthening the analytical skills of the reader, frequent reading is also an excellent way to reduce stress and improve mental health, which is especially beneficial for business and career-driven people.

Committed to challenging its clients to be their best and supporting them in reaching new heights of innovation, Assuras will be recommending one life-changing book every month to encourage business leaders in their pursuit of excellence. Each recommendation will be issued at the start of every month and readers who keenly follow the firm's directive can also receive an exclusive discount on the book prices thanks to Assuras' partnership with Amazon.
