

Planetshakers Releases GREATER: Live At Chapel

Songs Written In A Valley Were Recorded On A Mountaintop Along With Planetshakers Bible College Students; 60-Minute Chapel Event Video Available To Stream Now

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, UNITED STATES, October 28, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Internationally recognized praise and worship band Planetshakers globally releases GREATER: Live At Chapel today (Oct. 28) from Venture3Media (V3M). Available now at all major digital and streaming outlets via <https://planetshakers.streamlink.to/greaterlive>, the album was recorded live by Planetshakers band on a mountaintop vista near Melbourne, Australia along with Planetshakers Bible College students.

Following the release of Planetshakers' full production, live album GREATER last month, the core Planetshakers worship team, which consists of Joth Hunt, Sam Evans, Andy Harrison, Josh Ham, Aimee Walker, Chelsi Nikkerud, Rudy Nikkerud and more, gathered again for the intimate mountaintop encounter, GREATER: Live At Chapel. Re-crafting GREATER songs in a musically accessible way for smaller gatherings, this chapel recording was produced and mixed by Hunt, who also wrote or co-wrote all but one title on the 11-song recording.

As our praise went up in His presence, we had the overwhelming sense of God's glory coming down, even as the mountain was engulfed in a cloud the day we recorded.”

Joth Hunt

“As our praise went up in His presence, we had the overwhelming sense of God's glory coming down, even as the mountain was engulfed in a cloud the day we recorded,” shares Hunt.

In the turmoil of the valley, where stressors like inflation, finances and health can take a heavy toll and can lead to depression, Planetshakers offers praise and worship that reaches toward the mountaintop despite any present circumstances.

“It may not happen all at once, sometimes it takes years, but like a bodybuilder building strength over time through strenuous exercise, so is our praise leading us upwards,” says Sr. Pastor Russell Evans. “Like a tapestry in the hand of God, how much more beautiful is that view after having spent time in the valley.”

“When one realizes that Jesus is greater than anything that we may face in life, there is a freedom and peace that you walk into that truly reflects God’s kingdom and inspires others to chase after the same life changing encounter,” adds Sr. Pastor Sam Evans.

Sharing a joyful celebration that infuses every aspect of Planetshakers, GREATER: Live At Chapel opens with the remarkable trade of “Beauty for Ashes,” declares that God is greater than any situations we face in the title track, and highlights the thankful, steadfast response of praise with “Victory of Jesus” and “Psalm 23.”

I will praise, on the mountain
I will praise, in the valley
I will not fear
I will not fear
For You are here with me
(Psalm 23 chorus)

"Peace comes when we choose and speak faith over our circumstances," says Planetshakers' Joshua Brown. "Not denying facts, but declaring God's truth over those facts. If you can declare the goodness of God in the valley when things are looking bad, you can declare the goodness of God anywhere."
