Over the past few years, the lifestyles of people across the world have evolved dramatically. Due to hectic work schedules, people's dependency on products saving time and effort has increased. The surge in the consumption of high-quality fast food is one of the biggest trends in the food industry. Fast food, such as pizza/pasta, burger/sandwich, chicken, Asian/Latin American food, seafood, and ready-to-eat products, allows consumers to save time and efforts associated with ingredient shopping, meal preparation and cooking, consumption, and post-meal activities. The development and popularity of these food items are ascribed to many social changes; the most notable of these are the increasing number of smaller households and the rising millennial population across the world. This, in turn, is driving the fast food market.
