“Here at Metro Cash Offer, our main driving force why we do what we do is because we love our jobs, our friends, our community, and most all we value those we serve, our customers,” Keith added.

"We want to uphold our reputation as one of the most-trusted home buyers in Oklahoma by always improving our services through constant assessment of the needs of our customers," Keith explained.

Keith shared the three-step process when asked what homeowners can do right now to sell their houses.

First, homeowners should visit Metro Cash Offer's "How It Works" page. On that page, examples are shown to help them determine their property's offer price.

Second, homeowners should check Metro Cash Offer's "Learn About Our Company" page. Before doing any transaction with any company or anyone, homeowners must check the background first of the people they are dealing with.

The third step is to check the "Request Your All-Cash Offer" page, where homeowners can fill in the form to sell their homes or land.

After submission, a Metro Cash Offer representative would contact the homeowners and ask them if they like the offer, and if they do, they (the homeowners) would set a closing date and get their money.

Metro Cash Offer is a BBB-accredited real estate solutions company that buys houses in Oklahoma and surrounding cities.

The company has been in the business since 2005 and already has over 1200 successful transactions.
