Altenew rebrands their watercolor pen refills as crafters use them more and more for liquid watercolor techniques in the paper crafting world.

NEW YORK, NEW YORK, USA,
November 4, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/
-- Paper crafters have been utilizing Altenew's liquid watercolor bottles for more than just watercolor marker refills. Since their initial launch a few years ago, these watercolor refills were discovered to hold the potential for numerous watercolor techniques that quickly grew this product's range in the crafting arena.

Altenew liquid watercolor comes in perfectly sized bottles for easy storage and usage.

The Altenew liquid watercolor collection started as a simple and efficient way for artists to refill their watercolor brush markers. With a specially designed watercolor bottle for each color in the Altenew ink family, the collection provides all that is needed to continue reusing watercolor brush markers when they begin to dry out or streak. However, that is not all these watercolors have been used for.

“

I bought the full collection & now I feel like a child in a sweet shop choosing which colors to use. The pigment is high so you get beautiful colors, (and) you can add more water for a lighter shade.”

Naomi Thompson, Altenew Customer
