

Elevate Digital's Power Assist now in the Microsoft Power Platform Marketplace

No more long, complex expressions, convoluted conditionals, and inefficient looping! Power Assist makes your Power Automate workflows fast and easy to build.

CHARLOTTE, NORTH CAROLINA,
UNITED STATES, November 3, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Elevate Digital, the leader in delivering people-first technology services and staffing, has released Power Assist to the Microsoft Power Platform Marketplace.

Power Assist is a curated collection of APIs that can be invoked through Microsoft Power Automate or Power Apps to help citizen developers streamline specific technical needs. Power Automate and Power Apps help customers apply technology to digitize business operations, improving efficiencies and reducing operational costs across the enterprise. Both products provide a low-code, no-code approach to development, however certain technical requirements can still slow down the deployment of Power Platform-based solutions.

With actions covering the manipulation of arrays and strings, as well as math and text functions, Power Assist addresses the most common challenges during Power Platform solution development.”

Chief Technologist and Strategist*

“Elevate Digital's solution engineers have been helping our clients implement Power Platform solutions since its inception. We have leveraged this experience to create a simple solution that helps all citizen developers further reduce development time for their solutions,” said Jason

Bell, Elevate Digital's Chief Technologist and Strategist.

With over thirty-nine specific APIs specifically designed to simplify the execution of numerous complex functions within the development landscape, Power Assist quickly demonstrates its ROI by reducing development effort across a variety of scenarios.

“With actions covering the manipulation of arrays and strings, as well as math and text functions,

Power Assist addresses the most common challenges during Power Platform solution development,” said Bell, “and more actions are coming!”
