"Switching from Excel-based compensation administration to a single source of truth platform will improve efficiency, reduce risk of errors, and help us with the continued transition to value-based care," says

“As provider compensation becomes more complex, the need for compensation technology becomes more acute,” says Dave Butcher, Chief Growth Officer for HHCS. “Administrators and providers alike need visibility into accurate, real-time data, which is a challenge for many physician groups and health systems – but one that can be overcome with a solution like Heisenberg II.”
