Fangmann, P.E., BCEE*

Ms. Restrepo, who joined D&B Engineers and Architects in 2017 as a Principal Engineer, has over 20 years of experience in planning, design and development of water/wastewater projects with an emphasis on hydraulic design. She has assumed her new position as Vice President at D&B Engineers and Architects and will work from the Woodbury, NY headquarters office.

Ms. Restrepo has been a key project manager for D&B, working on numerous complex, high-profile, high-visibility municipal wastewater design projects. A graduate of Universidad de Medellin (Republic of Colombia) with a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering, Ms. Restrepo also received a Master of Engineering degree in Environmental Engineering from Manhattan College. Ms. Restrepo is a member of several professional societies including Water Environment Federation (WEF) and New York Water Environment Association (NYWEA).

D&B Engineers and Architects President Steven A. Fangmann, P.E., BCEE commented, “Ms. Restrepo has been an invaluable asset to D&B. Her expertise in D&B's essential services will continue to help propel the firm into new municipal and private arenas. Her commitment to D&B clients and their projects and her engineering expertise will further our firm's guiding philosophy of 'Facing Challenges, Providing Solutions.' I believe that this engineering philosophy will prepare our client communities for the future, and that Ms. Restrepo will play a leading role as part of the D&B team that determines the direction of D&B Engineers and Architects."
