

Disability Devices Market Report Outlines Revenue, Challenges, and Forecast by 2028 | Cochlear, MED-EL, GF Health Prod

SEATTLE, UNITED STATES, UNITED STATES, November 11, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Disability devices and technologies assist people in preserving or increasing their functionality and independence, making it easier for them to participate in activities and overall well-being. These devices also help to prevent impairments and associated health problems. Prostheses, hearing aids, wheelchairs, visual aids, and customised computer software and hardware that improve hearing, vision, communication, and movement are examples of handicap equipment. According to a 2019 World Health Organization (WHO) study, just 5-15 percent of persons in low- and middle-income countries have access to disability equipment. As a result, a lack of accessibility to disability devices is expected to be a primary factor driving demand for disability devices in the near future.
