

National Conferences Provide Opportunities for Schools to Rise to the Safety Challenge: SOS ThreeSixty Answers the Call

The two national conferences facilitated important discussions and opportunities for independent schools to make safe boundaries between staff and students.

WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, December 12, 2022 / EINPresswire.com/ -- The Association of Boarding Schools (TABS) and Summer Programs And Auxiliary Revenue Collaborative (SPARC) recently held their annual conferences, with SOS ThreeSixty, Inc. exhibiting and providing effective Boundary Training Safety Solutions to many of the country's independent day and boarding schools.

[The] TABS Conference in Washington, DC was the premier boarding school event of the year — featuring over 50 sessions, pre-convention events, spotlight speakers, and a special address from TABS newly named Executive Director, Susan Baldrige. The two-day event (November 10-12, 2022) also featured several inspiring keynote speakers such as Crystal Williams, President of Rhode Island School of Design, Educator & Poet.

In Scottsdale, AZ from November 1-4, 2022, SPARC was the premier national conference serving the professional development needs of independent school summer and auxiliary program leaders. The comprehensive program addresses the wide range of responsibilities held by summer/auxiliary program leaders, including safety, human resources, marketing, business management, innovation and entrepreneurship, programming, operations, and technology.
