development for cooling fabrics*

VANCOUVER, BC, CANADA, November 15, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The global cooling fabrics market is estimated to reach value of USD 4.03 Billion by 2027, according to a current analysis by Emergen Research. Increase in the demand for sportswear and protective clothing is propelling the cooling fabrics market.

Rise in awareness about better health has led to increased adoption of exercises, which has generated high demand for sportswear. Cooling fabrics offer comfortable body temperature in hot weather and ease the body condition. It also provides protection from UV rays, pollution, and sweat. Development of cost-effective products and promotional activities to create awareness about cooling fabrics are likely to drive the market for cooling fabrics in the near future.

Increase in the demand from the defense as well as the healthcare sector would offer lucrative opportunities for the cooling fabrics market in the next few years. Cooling fabrics are used in the manufacture of military uniforms and clothes used in extreme conditions such as deep-sea and space exploration, wherein the cooling property of fabrics contributed to better performance of the user. The high cost of apparel and low level of awareness are estimated to restrain the market during the forecast period.
