DALLAS, TEXAS, UNITED STATES,
November 18, 2022 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Black Friday is the biggest shopping event of the year in the U.S. and the day when retailers offer the biggest sales to attract more customers and boost profits. Black Friday is the day after Thanksgiving Day, which is the fourth Thursday of November. Black Friday was originally a day when U.S. retailers would turn accounting profits from red to black (from a negative amount to a positive amount). However, over time it has also become a day for retailers to offer sales to customers to increase traffic and sales during the holiday shopping season. Black Friday is a day to find amazing deals on everything from toys to TVs, and it's the day when many people begin their holiday shopping.

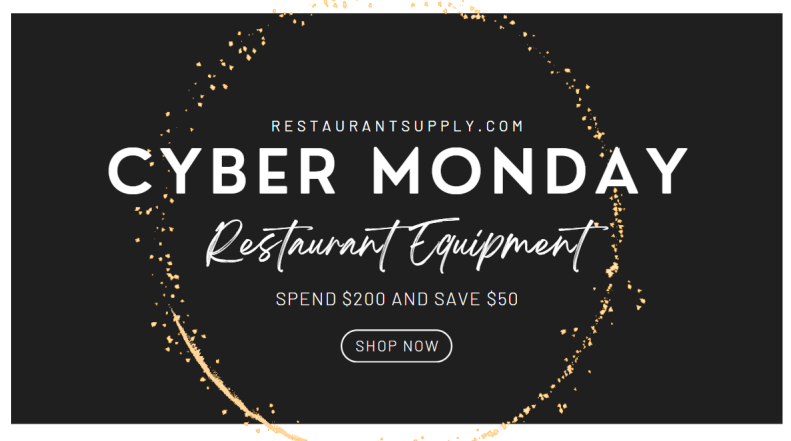

What Is The History Of Black Friday?

Since 1951, Black Friday was a well-known day, as Philadelphia and Rochester police described shopping congestion and problems at the beginning of the Christmas shopping season. In 1961, Philadelphia merchants attempted to rename the days 'Big Friday' and 'Big Saturday,' which soon failed, according to Wikipedia.
