

Elena Von Kohn's "Dancing With Gravity" is creating a stir in the art world

The new series is a collection of original oil paintings and their 1/1 NFT animated art variant.

PHOENIX, ARIZONA, UNITED STATES, November 21, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The art world is buzzing over a new series by artist Elena Von Kohn. Dividing opinions after being termed as "Too Provocative" and "Fresh Perspective," Elena Von Kohn's four art pieces from her latest collection, "Dancing With Gravity," is stirring a lot of controversies and conversation at the same time. Even though the subject of debate in the art world is nothing new, Von Kohn's distinctive brand of Figurative Enigmatic Surrealism is said to draw inspiration from surrealism and abstract impressionism while posing numerous questions on each canvas.

The "Return of Innocent" focuses on what the true nature of bringing back something lost or going back in time entails. Depending on an individual's interpretation, it could speak of a golden period or perhaps a more sinister era when most people's lives weren't so brilliant.

Another piece, with the thought-provoking title "Age of Diversity," seems to either poke fun at modern attempts to achieve diversity while displaying little diversity or question whether one can truly distinguish between the perception of reality and diversity.

The artist has gone above and above to create NFT versions of the static pieces to give them a unique, dynamic movement. While many think an art piece that asks multiple questions is often a masterpiece, the conversation fuelled by Elena Von Kohn is truly starting an art war between both sides.

The new series by Von Kohn serves as both a discussion point for educated art enthusiasts and a tool for the common public and art lovers to enjoy by considering our perspectives and exchanging them with one another. Her new thought-provoking series is currently available on OpenSea.
