performance, key success and risk factors, manufacturing requirements, project costs and economics, expected returns on investment, profit margins, etc. required for setting up an e-rickshaw manufacturing plant. The study, which is based both on desk research and multiple waves of qualitative primary research, is a must-read for entrepreneurs, investors, researchers, consultants, business strategists, and all those who are planning to foray into the e-rickshaw industry in any manner.

An e-rickshaw refers to an electric-powered, three-wheeled vehicle that is used for commercial purposes to transport passengers and goods. It uses a battery and an electric powertrain to stimulate the car. An e-rickshaw has various electronic components, including a controller, motor, electric battery, throttle, and harness, which are utilized together to drive the vehicle. It is cheaper, faster, and easy to drive as compared to traditional auto rickshaws. Moreover, an e-rickshaw is strong, lightweight, environmentally friendly, highly durable, resistant to fire, and non-conducting. It ensures a smooth driving experience on congested roads with fewer vibrations and noise.

The rising environmental pollution due to the use of diesel-fueled vehicles and the growing need for an electric mode of commuting is primarily driving the global e-rickshaw market. In addition to this, government authorities of various nations are promoting electric vehicles (EVs) in public transportation and fleets, which is also providing a positive outlook to the market. Furthermore, the government authorities are also providing subsidies to electric vehicle (EVs) manufacturers in order to boost the production and adoption of E-rickshaws. Apart from this, the escalating demand for e-rickshaws on account of the ban on fuel-powered vehicles, along with the rising fuel prices, is further stimulating market growth. Additionally, the bolstering need for cost-effective transportation across the globe, owing to the expanding urban population, is also driving the demand for E-rickshaws. Furthermore, several key market players are extensively investing in research and development (R&D) activities to launch enhanced e-rickshaws with powerful motors, which is projected to fuel the global e-rickshaw market over the forecasted period.
