Some Key Highlights from the Report

Low density segment is expected to account for a significantly large revenue share in the global market over the forecast period attributed to increasing demand for low-density D3O materials to manufacture low-density, durable, flexible, and shock absorbing materials for protective gear, athletic footwear, and industrial footwear.

Motorcycle segment revenue is expected to expand at a robust revenue CAGR over the forecast period owing to growing application of D3O materials in the production of helmets, knee pads, gloves, and other protective gear that are specifically designed for biking and racing. D3O materials have a higher capacity of withstanding multiple impacts which makes them highly suitable for motorcyclists.

Europe is expected to register significant revenue growth over the forecast period owing to increasing demand for D3O in producing protective cases for consumer electronics, in industrial workwear, and presence of major manufacturers in the region such as D3O company in the United Kingdom.
