CT Post, a leading Connecticut publication, relies on objective, third party data from industry regulatory agencies, professional associations, nonprofits, trade groups, member organizations to ensure each merchant or practitioner chosen holds the required certifications, permits, and credentials to meet industry standards. We also use these third parties to affirm each is in good standing with its industry's governing body. Additionally, our team of professional curators comb through credible third-party sites trusted by and specific to each industry, social media pages and thousands of reviews each year to survey customer experience. In some cases, our Curators also visit the businesses. Our Curator's Picks include only businesses and/or professionals who meet these standards and the criteria we establish for each content piece.

The utility-scale solar market puts up impressive installation numbers each year, but most workers in the industry are constructing projects in the commercial and residential markets, which continue to break records. More than 85 percent of the companies on the list primarily work in the residential and commercial sectors, and they all reported closing out the last year in a positive light.

"It's always exciting to be recognized," says Prime Energy Solar CEO Shawn Roby. "To achieve this honor, it starts with the hard work of our team members in the field and those directly supporting their daily efforts in the office. We are passionate and work tirelessly to deliver for our customers."

"We are humbled and honored to be recognized as one of the Best Solar Companies in CT, and we congratulate all the other top companies as well," says Roby. "The industry is on the verge of monumental growth. We are always trying to establish ourselves at the top of Best Solar Companies Near Me. 5"
