Sharing the experience of directing his own wife, Carlos spoke of the professionalism of Jasmine Berber and the entire film cast who managed the shoot in a compact space, while also adjusting to the budget constraints of the tough times in the entertainment industry. The stand-out factor of the film is the commitment and dedication with which Carlos created this masterpiece of art against all odds and obstacles during the crisis stricken entertainment industry. The individual filmmaker was supported throughout by his wife, who also co-produced the film and will be seen portraying a double role. The film also stars Chelsea Claire, Angel Ruiz, Nicole Camacho, Ashli Phoenix, and Michael Jovon Bennett in supporting roles. It is a joint production of Berber Productions and Visually Inhale Productions with the likes of critically acclaimed names Cassidy Torrey, Rubin Nino, and executive producer Darrin Ramage.

'The entire cast except me, the sound in-charge Ignacio Fimbres and my wife contracted Covid on the third day of the shoot. It was a serious impediment to our 21 days scheduled shoot and we already had our encounters with the bus owner who had no idea about how a media production operated, the logistics was another challenge, camera angles and lighting required us to work assiduously, and I had my hopes down at times but was adamant about delivering this horror roller coaster to the audience. Make sure to watch it!' — Carlos Berber.

The Arizonan-born Carlos Berber has made a name for himself in a short span of time, though his journey goes back to his childhood when he was inspired to be an actor. Unfortunately, at the hands of fate, with no generational wealth or the lucky charm in Hollywood, which resided far from where he lived, giving into the conditions he couldn't do much about, Carlos found his way into film-making, a skill he could put to use anywhere. He thoroughly enjoys creating horror genres and experiences them with a mix of other genres. Carlos is currently busy promoting 'Party Bus' and an exciting line of projects coming later in 2023, among which include The House That Eats Flesh.'
