network and the rising trend of youth joining them.

In his interview with the Supreme Leader's website on November 9, the regime's Minister of Intelligence, Ismail Khatib, acknowledged that the current uprising is "organized."

"These recent riots had a complicated plot, unlike the past scattered protests. Small groups would instigate these protests with timely and bold actions. They were fully organized and guided.

Interestingly, these first units immediately left the scene once the demonstration started, and went to start another riot in another location," he said.

It is worth noting that The Iranian Resistance published the names of a dozen of the martyred Resistance Units who sacrificed their lives during the major Iran protests in Nov. 2019.

They led Iranians during that uprising in their struggle against the regime, and they paid the price of freedom with their blood.

The following are only some of the thousands of reports by the brave Resistance Units regarding their activities during what many consider a democratic revolution in the making.

Bukan, November -16, 2022

Tonight, the brave people in Bukan captured the city's downtown. I am a member of the Resistance Units network. I am reporting from the scene. People are celebrating their victory. I warn the regime's security forces to lay down their arms in the city. Stop your crimes, or you will feel the people's fur hail to the Iranian Resistance.

We went to one of our friend's tombs. His aunt said: "I will neither forgive nor forget those who killed our loved ones." We also chanted anti-regime slogans, and a large crowd joined us. They were all telling us that soon this regime would fall. No one is afraid of the mullahs anymore.

Tonekabon- November 2022

I witnessed how several defiant youths torched the police station. I also saw them burn the police billboard. I was overwhelmed with joy since we were the only ones setting fire to the regime's symbols and banners in the last two years.
