The partnership comes on the heels of Workiva's 2022 Partner of the Year awards, where both Clearview Group and FloQast won their respective categories: Clearview Group as Americas Advisory Partner of the Year and FloQast as Global Technology Partner of the Year. Workiva is a global software-as-a-service company that provides cloud-based connected and reporting compliance platforms that enable the use of connected data and automation of reporting across finance, accounting, risk, and compliance. Both FloQast and Clearview Group have won partnership awards with Workiva for the last three years.

"After seeing FloQast's success with Workiva align with our own, we saw a natural opportunity to join forces," says Jeff Binford, Principal, Accounting & Finance at Clearview Group. "This partnership provides an enhanced opportunity for us to achieve our goals of helping our clients' finance and accounting teams improve their people, process, and technology operations through automation with tailor-made innovative solutions."

As part of FloQast's ongoing, rapid growth, the company instituted a partnership program to identify quality leaders in the consulting space that have a knack for technology implementation. This led FloQast to Clearview Group.

"FloQast's consulting program aims to provide value to accounting teams that are looking for both consulting services and workflow automation," said Mike Whitmire, CEO and co-founder of FloQast, inactive CPA. "Our partnership with Clearview Group brings our joint clients a stand-out technology platform coupled with trusted advisors - empowering teams to get the most out of their technology.”
