ST. LOUIS, MO, UNITED STATES , November 30, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A pair of young Hollywood heavyweights are bringing an evening of magic and mystery to the STL. "Forget Me Not" debuts on December 2 at 8 pm at The Gaslight Theater, 360 North Boyle Avenue, with shows each Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday through December 18. Master magician Kyle Marlett and Forget Me Not's co-creator, actor, director, and voice actor Gunnar Sizemore have teamed up to bring Gateway City audiences stunning visuals, impossible illusions, and raw storytelling for the never-before-seen show. Their ambitious goal is to create a new piece of theatre that combines magic and storytelling into the kind of show audiences have never seen before.

Marlett says that now that he has amassed over 1.5 million online followers and over a billion views, he's now "focused on more meaningful connections; Why are we here, and what do we leave behind?"

Sizemore, the show's co-creator, says that "Forget Me Not" is the journey of one human figuring out what it means to be remembered. We've all experienced the feeling that there's not enough time. We sometimes wonder what will happen after we're gone, how our stories will be told, and how we can leave a lasting impact. In our show, Kyle asks these questions of himself and seeks to find answers with you in the audience."
