Key Trends In The Point-of-Care Diagnostics Devices and Equipment Market

Over-the-Counter (OTC) testing is being termed as an important trend driving the growth of the point of care diagnostics market. FDA has approved OTC test kits for cholesterol, fecal occult blood, pregnancy, and HIV/HCV. This method would improve the access to testing and early detection of the disease. These testing kits may generate more revenue than prescription tests over the forecast period due to ease of using the kits, increased home care and self-testing, and a rise in availability and adoption rate.

Overview Of The Point-of-Care Diagnostics Devices and Equipment Market

The POC diagnostics devices and equipment market consists of sales of point-of-care (POC) diagnostics devices and equipment and related services. Point-of-care diagnostics devices and equipment are designed to aid physicians in performing medical diagnostic testing at or near the point of care, for immediate knowledge on diseases or conditions.
