

Abrasives Market 2022 Industry Research, Share, Trend, Price, Future Analysis to 2030

NEWARK, UNITED STATES, December 5, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The global abrasives market is expected to reach USD 66.71 billion by 2028, at a CAGR of 7.13% during the forecast period 2021-2028. Abrasives are materials used to finish, shape, and polish various surfaces by rubbing or grinding against them. This can be done with various types of abrasive materials and tools, such as diamond grinding wheels, sandpaper, and buffing pads. Abrasives are used in a variety of industries, including automotive, construction, and furniture manufacturing.

The report states that increasing demand from the automotive industry is a major factor driving the growth of the abrasives market. Automotive manufacturers are increasingly using abrasive materials and tools to improve the quality of their products. The increasing demand for consumer electronics is also driving the growth of the abrasives market, as abrasive materials and tools are used to polish and finish electronic components.
