We are glad to be working with the MaddenCo team and are ready to journey with them into the future of digital by providing our solutions for texting, digital vehicle inspections, and quality control”

Chris Cloutier

The integration provides MaddenCo users with new, powerful tools for managing their repair bays and improving communication with customers. “We are excited to add Autoflow’s texting and inspection capabilities to our recently enhanced web POS system. Our customers are going to love it,” shares Jay Adams, president of MaddenCo.

Integration features include customizable, digital inspection sheets that serve to educate customers through pictures and videos. Additionally, Autoflow’s visual workflow ensures that all shop personnel know the status of each vehicle and can easily identify bottleneck situations, while customers are sent instant status updates, enabling everyone to stay informed.

“We are glad to be working with the MaddenCo team and are ready to journey with them into the future of digital by providing our solutions for texting, digital vehicle inspections, and quality control,” explains Chris Cloutier, multi-shop owner and Autoflow founder.

Since 1977, MaddenCo has been providing total software solutions to the independent tire dealer, retreader, commercial tire dealer, and truck stop industries. For more information on MaddenCo, visit www.maddenco.com.
