PHILADELPHIA, PA, UNITED STATES, December 6, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- On Sunday,

Phish's Fall 1997 tour changed the way that I see live music, and it served the same purpose for so many other fans.”

RJ Bee, CEO of Osiris Media

December 11th, Osiris Media will bring their flagship podcast, Undermine, to a live audience for the first time with music and discussion, celebrating Phish's legendary Fall 1997 tour (AKA "Phish Destroys America"). Hosted by Phish Lyricist Tom Marshall, Osiris Media CEO RJ Bee, and author Benjy Eisen, they'll chat with special guests about this unique sound that still resonates 25 years later.

Volume.com will be the exclusive streaming partner for this show and fans can register for free to tune in.

Following the discussion, there will be a set of music in tribute to the sound of Fall '97, featuring guitarist Cal Kehoe (Pink Talking Fish), bass player Chris Deangelis (The Machine / Kung Fu), drummer Adrian Tramontano (Twiddle / Kung Fu), keyboard player Jeremy Kaplan (Dogs In A Pile), Andrew Pfeiffer (FeelFree), plus special guests.

“Phish's Fall 1997 tour changed the way that I see live music, and it served the same purpose for so many other fans,” said RJ Bee, CEO of Osiris Media. “Every time we bring music and conversation together at one of these events, it always brings out new stories and perspectives. We have an insanely talented band who is going to bring this music to life, for this once-in-a-lifetime event.”
