The wire and cable compound market consists of sales of wire and cable compounds by entities (organizations, sole traders, and partnerships) that are used to formulate insulating and jacketing materials for wires and cables. Wire and cable compounds refer to substances that protect telecommunication and power transmission wires from moisture intrusion and are also used to create wires and cables with exceptional durability, corrosion and chemical resistance, mechanical stability, flexibility, and abrasion resistance.

Global Wire & Cable Compounds Market Trends

Technological advancements are a key trend gaining popularity in the wire and cable compound market going forward. Major companies are developing new products with advanced technologies to sustain their position in the wire and cable compound market. For instance, in September 2020, HEXPOL Technologies, a Germany-based international polymer compounding group, launched a comprehensive portfolio of wire and cable compounds based on high-performance materials such as VMQ, additives, advanced rubber technologies, and thermoplastic elastomers. The unique features include low smoke, low toxicity, and flame retardancy without halogens. Materials are RoHS, SVHC, and REACH compliant, and come in grades that adhere to IEC 60811 or EN 50363 international cable standards.
