Clutch's Fool-Proof Rating System

Clutch is a renowned review platform that has vetted over 4,000 app development companies to help businesses find the best app developers across the globe. Trusted by millions of consumers, Clutch regularly creates a shortlist of top app development firms for site visitors to choose the right one for their software development project. In addition, Clutch provides detailed client reviews of each company.

Their most recent ranking of the top 1000 global software firms only includes businesses that have fulfilled a criterion that includes:

- The number of reviews a firm receives for quality and how recent they are.
- A portfolio of work (clientele served)
- A robust company profile
- Strong industry presence

To be shortlisted in this prestigious list, companies need to stand out by putting in extra effort that earns them that five-star customer rating.

Cubix has once again shown that it is customer-friendly, on-time, and result-driven by being named among the top-performing firms worldwide.

It is important to note that Cubix has received significant honors and that well-known outlets have praised the company for its accomplishments and brilliance.
