Duck farming plays a vital role in the poultry industry, which is one of the fastest-growing sectors in the world. Duck diseases are a major cause of concern because they can affect finances of small and landless farmers. Ducks are important to rural livelihoods because they provide a steady supply of meat and eggs. One of the most important measures to prevent outbreaks is to maintain the health of the ducks. Viruses have been reported to have more devastating consequences for duck productivity than other diseases that affect ducks. The most prevalent disease in ducks is Escherichia coli due to poor farm hygiene.
